

Do You Wish to Be Published as a New Writer?

I'm offering a handful of paid opportunities for new writers to publish their stories through my self-publishing platform!

Here is the deal:

- You write a short story with a minimum of ten episodes, each a minimum of 600 words. The story total must be greater than 6,000 words.
- I will pay you 0.50 cents/word after each episode is completed and clears my submission process. This can be incremental or all at once.
(ie. 6000 words = $30; 15000 words = $75)
- I will do all of the editing (you need only write the story and make it coherent enough for me to read).
- I will pay for, generate, and manage the cover image/art for the serial and long-form releases.
- You will be marked as the primary author, I am only a contributor.
- As a "White Sanctum product", your work/name will be featured on www.thewhitesanctum.org
- You can refer to this publication at any time in your portfolio
- I will inherit any royalties, bonuses, and rights of distribution. This is fair as royalties will be marginal and the marketing for the product is my responsibility.

You are paid regardless.

Why do this?

Because it is an effortless opportunity to publish new and existing work at little to no cost to yourself. You get your name out into the aether and become associated with other authors via The White Sanctum. Your book will be sold primarily on Amazon.
